ROGERS, U. E. L.

THE family of Rogers claim to be descended from Count de Rogier, who came to England with William the Conqueror. A branch of the family settled in the north of Ireland, of which was James Rogers, who came from Londonderry in 1718 and settled in New Hampshire, where the family became the holders of a large tract of land. He was accidentally killed by a hunter who mistook him for a bear. He m. Mary McFatridge, and had issue, viz.:

- 1.—Samuel, of Dunbarton, New Hampshire.
- 2.—(Major) Robert, b. 1724, d. unm. 1784, who in 1755 organized a company of scouts for service in the war between the English and French, from which corps was developed the famous Rangers. variously known as "Rogers' Rangers," the Queen's Rangers and the King's Rangers, whose extraordinary services under his command during the war which resulted in Canada becoming part of the British Empire, and again, after having been for a time disbanded, under Col. Simcoe (subsequently first Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada) in the American Revolutionary War, are matters of history, which it is beyond the scope of the present work to follow; it may, however, be not out of place to note that to Major Rogers, with 200 of the Rangers, was committed the duty of taking possession of the western posts of the French after the capitulation of Quebec and Montreal, in which service he was the first British officer to occupy Toronto, where he landed on 30th Sept. 1760, near the mouth of the Toronto River (the Humber) at the French Fort, then bearing the same name, but sometimes known as Fort Rouillé, the site of which is marked by a monument in the Exhibition Park.

3.—(Col.) James (U.E.L.), b. cir. 1726, d. 23rd Sept. 1790; was Major commanding 1st Batt. 84th Regt., or King's Rangers, a corps which also had its origin from Rogers' Rangers, and was subsequently Colonel; at the close of the American Revolutionary War he came to Canada with a party of immigrants, mostly men of the Rangers with their families. and after having been for some time at St. Johns, Quebec, settled in 1784 at Fredericksburgh on the Bay of Quinte; m. 1763 Margaret, dau. of Rev. Ryerson.

RYERSON OR RYERSE, U. E. L.

ORIGINALLY of Holland, where the family name is said to have been anciently Van der Licht, but the present name (Ryerson or son of Ryer) is of considerable antiquity, as Baldwin Ryerse, a military officer in Amsterdam in 1567, is named in history. Adrian, Jan and Martin Ryerson, with others of the family, are stated to have come to America early in the seventeenth century; of these,

Martin Ryerson, d. 1687, settled in Brooklyn, Long Island; m. 14th May 1663, Annetje, dau. of Joris-Jansen Rapelje (she was b. Feb. 8th 1646, and survived her husband and was m. 2ndly, 30th Jan. 1692, to Joost Fransen) and had issue, besides others:

Joris (or George), bapt'd. 19th Sept. 1666, d. about 1747; resided for a while in New York, and about 1710 removed to Pacquanac in the Pompton Valley; he held a judicial appointment; m. 11th Aug. 1691, Anneken Schenten, widow of Jonnis Dye; she was b. 17th March 1666, d. 17th March 1743; and had issue, besides others:

Luykas, bapt'd. 9th April 1704, d. 1764; held a judicial appointment; m. 1stly, Elizabeth Regerson, and had issue, viz.: 1.—Luykas, b. 1739. 2.—George of Pacquanac, b. 22nd Dec. 1742, d. 22nd Sept. 1842. 1.—Mary, b. 1737. 2.—Ann. 3.—Elizabeth; and 2ndly, Hannah King, and 3rdly, Joanna Van Duhoff, and had issue of the 3rd marriage, viz.:

3.—Samuel, who came to Canada, and of whom below.

4.—Joseph, who came to Canada, and of whom below.

5.—John, of Easton in Pennsylvania.

4.—Hittie or Hettie. 5.—Elizabeth. 6.—Sarah.

(Lieut.-Col.) Samuel Ryerson, or Ryerse, which form of the name he adopted in consequence of its having been so spelled in his commission, above named, b. 1752, d. June 1812; was a Captain in the 4th New Jersey Volunteers (Loyalists) in the American Revolutionary War, at the close of which, in 1783, he went to New Brunswick, where, however, he did not remain, but removed to Upper Canada, where he settled, in 1794, on the north shore of Lake Erie, then an almost unbroken forest, at a place near Long Point, which has since borne his name, Port Ryerse, Co. Norfolk. He was Lieutenant of the County of Norfolk, and Judge of the London District Court, and Colonel of Militia. He is said to have been the first Free Mason in Upper Canada, having been the Master of a Military Masonic Lodge formed in the 4th New Jersey Volunteers, which derived from a Lodge in the 16th Queen's Light Dragoons (aftds. Lancers). The papers of this Lodge still exist, being in the possession of George-Becher Harris, named below. M. 1783, Sarah Underhill (widow of Capt. Davenport), and had issue, viz., besides seven who d. inf.:

BURNHAM.

THERE are various branches in America of this family, of which the places of origin in England are the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Lincoln, Buckingham, Kent and Hereford. The Encyclopædia of Heraldry gives six families of the name bearing arms varied from a common original. The first settlement of members of the family in America was made upon extensive land grants along the shore of Ipswich Bay, near Boston, a portion of which is still in possession of the descendants. The first settlers in Canada, who were staunch loyalists, were four sons of Asa Burnham, b. 19th March 1751, who was fourth in descent from Thomas Burnham, an original settler, son of Robert Burnham, b. 1581, of Norwich, Eng,* viz.:

Asa, who settled at Cobourg in 1797, m. Sarah Lovekin, and had issue, besides another son and a dau., both of whom d. young, (Hon.) Asa-Allworth, b. 1808, d. 1874, Mayor of Cobourg, Warden of Coies. (Col.) JAMES FITZGIBBON (named above), b. 16th Nov. 1780, d. 10th Dec. 1863; enrolled with his father and elder brother in a yeomanry corps raised to resist the threatened French invasion of 1795, and shortly became a sergeant; entered a Fencible Regiment in 1798, and soon afterwards volunteered into the Army as a sergeant, taking with him 40 men, who were drafted into the 49th Regt.; served in Holland, and with Nelson's fleet before Copenhagen, and in Canada from 1802; received a Commission in 1806. Served throughout the War of 1812 with distinction, being particularly known as the hero of Beaver Dams, an outpost which (as Lieut.) he held with 46 men, reinforced during the engagement by 16 horse, and supported by about 250 or 300 men of the Six Nations (see Brant), and being warned by Laura Secord (see Secord) of an intended attack by the Americans, made such an adroit disposition of his men, and managed them so skilfully, that he led the enemy to believe that they had been surrounded by a superior force, and taking advantage of their confusion, with "cool effrontery" demanded and secured their surrender; the Americans, after losing 56 killed and wounded, surrendered 554, of whom 80 were mounted, with two guns. For this exploit he was promoted Captain in the Glengarry Regiment, in which he served until it was disbanded in 1816, when he received an appointment in the office of the Adjutant-General of Militia. Was Assist. Adjt.-Genl. 1822; Col. of West York Regt. of Militia, and afterwards of 1st Regt. Toronto Militia. Took a prominent part (acting Adjt.-Genl) in the suppression of the Rebellion of 1837-8, having by his foresight and determination secured the defeat of the attack on Toronto, for which service the Legislature voted him a grant of 5,000 acres, which, however, he never received. Was J.P.; Clerk of the Legislative Assembly; Clerk of the Legislative Council; and Registrar of the Court of Probate for Upper Canada. Was Deputy-Grand Master of the Freemasons of Upper Canada 1822. He returned to England in 1846, and was appointed a Military Knight of Windsor, 1850. M. 14th Aug. 1814, Mary Haley (having obtained leave of absence sufficient to enable him to travel from a distance of sixty miles to the church at Adolphustown, where she met him, and being obliged to leave from the church door to return to his duty), and had issue, besides others who d. young, viz. :

SECORD, U.E.I.

THE family of Secord, formerly de Secor, derive descent from an ancient and noble family of La Rochelle, in France. A Marquis de Secor was an officer of the household of Louis X. His descendants and others of his family became Huguenots, and in consequence, during the persecution of the Huguenots, lost their estates; some of them lost their lives, and others escaped to England. Eventually some of the family emigrated to America and settled at New Rochelle in New Jersey. In the Revolutionary War many of the family adhered to the Crown, and at the conclusion of the war settled chiefly in Upper Canada, but some in New Brunswick. The rolls of Butler's Rangers contained the following names of Secords: John senior, John junior, Stephen, David, Peter, Silas and Solomon, all members of the same family, but the relationship and identity of all of them cannot now be determined.

Peter Secord, presumably the one just named, is said to have been engaged with others of the family in the erection of mills near Niagara, probably at St. David's, and afterwards to have settled at Long Point on Lake Erie. Of John Secord, see below, E. Four of the others named are no doubt identical with four of five brothers who came to Canada, sons of James Secord who had issue, viz.:

- 1.—Solomon, of whom below, A.
- 2.—Stephen, of whom below, B.
- 3.—David, of whom below, C.
- 4.—John, separated from the family and was not heard of again.
- 5.—James, of whom below, D.
- 1.—Magdalen, b. 4th May 1764, d. 25th Jan. 1827; m. to Hon. Richard Cartwright (See Cartwright).
- 2.—Esther, b. 21st July 1766, d. Feb. 1802, unm.

Chadwick.

CHADWICK.

THE family of Chadwick, of which there are numerous branches, had their origin from Chadwick near Rochdale, Co. Lancaster, Eng., where it is said that the main branch of the family, which terminated in 1722, on the death unm. of Sarah Chadwick, a sole heiress, was seated from temp. William I., it being asserted, though the statement is unauthenticated and perhaps mythical, to have commenced with Ceadda, a Saxon Thane who retained his lands after the Conquest by becoming the vassal of a Norman Baron,* and whose "wick" or hamlet, Chadða's wyck, gave origin to the name, anciently Chaddewyk.†

The Canadian family derives descent from that of Ballinard, Co. Tipperary, Ire., established there by a gentleman from Co. York, Eng., who according to an old family tradition is said to have married a ward in Chancery in England, named Grace Goggin, without the permission of the Court, and escaped out of the jurisdiction with his wife concealed in a sack. He is supposed to have been the father of Richard Chadwick, of Ballinard, who m. Mary Baker, and d.s.p. cir. 1720, and of William, of Ballinard, who m. cir. 1675, Elizabeth, dau. of William Gabbett‡ of Caherline [Arms: Gu., a griffin segreant or, holding a banner flying to the dexter arg., charged with an imperial two-headed eagle displayed sa.], and had issue, viz.:

William, d. 1748, of Gurthakilleen, Co. Limerick, who m. Jane Greene, d. Sept. 1779, of the family of Greene of Kilmanahan, Co.

*Named or styled de Rochdale. It is remarkable that the Arms of Chadwick are identical with those of the Borough of Rochdale (as formerly borae), and of the family of Rashdale, but with change of tincture, a usual indication of vassalage.

†A curious survival of this form of the name, although disused for more than three centuries, was brought to the notice of the author. A Professor Chadwick came from Philadelphia to Canada as a U.E.L., who although using the modern mode of spelling, pronounced his name in the trisyllabic form.

‡William Gabbett, m. Alicia, dau. of Richard England, who was an ancestor of the Rt. Rev. Thomas-Brock Fuller, first Bishop of Niagara (see Fuller).

RYERSON.

This family appears to have been of some prominence in Amsterdam, their names appearing in public records frequently from an early date.

Adrian Ryerson, one of the first settlers in America, had two sons, Elbert and Marten; the descendants of the former took the surname of Adrianse or Adriance, and those of the latter the name of Martense or Martens.

Arms of Ryerson: Quarterly; 1 and 4, sa. a tree withersd and eradicated arg.; 2 and 3, arg. (?), three halberts bend ways and in bend sinister, the middle one longer than the others, sa. (?), the blades vert; surtout, az., a martlet or. Crest: A swan rousant. Motto: Voor God en Vaderland.

The family of Rapelje, some of whom (U.E.L.) settled in Canada, derive from Gaspard Colet de Rapalie, b. 1505, of Chatillon sur Loire, in France, Col. of Infantry, who becoming a Protestant was deprived of his commission and (1548) compelled to flee to Holland. His grandsons Chevalier William-Janssen de Rapalje and Joris-Janssen de Rapalje came to America in 1623, where the latter built the first house erected on Long Island, and his dau. was the first child of European parentage born in the colony. Arms: Az., three bars or. Crest: A pyramidal shaped hat, tinctured and charged as the arms, surmounted by six ostrich plumes, az. and or.
